

Abderrahmane Morchid

My Name is Abderrahmane Morchid, and I'm currently the resident assistant of building 30. I'm a senior business student majoring in Finance and International Business. As for my leisure time, I like to play football, watch movies, learn more about graphic design, and most importantly, I have developed a great passion towards online trading during the past few years.

I enjoy learning new things and am a fast learner, and work well with others and on my own. I have plans to complete my Business Administration degree in finance and have ambitions of becoming a successful entrepreneur.

My tendency towards helping people made me realize that I have to become a resident assistant. Although spring of 2011 is my first semester as an RA, I have learnt so much about the mission of RAs. Throughout this semester, I was able to advise individual residents in personal, social, and academic matters. I also succeeded in building a strong relationship with the residents I interact with.

Resident assistants are here to help students become aware of the university's responsibilities, as well as encourage them to deal with personal and educational matters on a peer level; That's why I highly recommend students to talk to their resident assistants, and I'm pretty sure they won't let them down.
