Internship Corner

Amina Faouzi Zizi (Class of 2011, Concentration: International Studies) tells her story

My internship at the Moroccan Television and Radio (SNRT) last fall was very special. It was an important opportunity for me to discover the difficulties that this field is facing. Among those problems are: difficulties in using accurate communication tools to better position SNRT programs for the Moroccan public. The second important problem is the irrelevancy of some radio programs, especially those that induce the Moroccan audience to passive thinking and negative attitudes.

Overall, my integration within this public organization was very smooth. Managers and employees valued my ideas, and appreciated my initiative-taking spirit, which motivated me to do my best and helped me appreciate the working environment more.

My experience at the Moroccan Television and Radio was both challenging and enriching. Thanks to my internship there I could change my previous gloomy perception of the public sector in Morocco. Trust me, you can be creative wherever you go, provided that you like what you do and believe in it!
